NOTES

All estimates released to the public are rounded to the nearest hundred, but computations are always based on unrounded data. For this reason, aggregations may appear to be incorrectly summed, and computations cannot be precisely duplicated.

* For all localities except Albemarle and Charlottesville, the figures in this column are the 2000 Census counts, including official revisions. For adjustments made to Albemarle and Charlottesville, see note (2).

\*\* The formula for average annual growth is  $100 * [\log_{10}(P_n/P_o) / (n * 0.4342945)]$  where  $P_n$  = end year,  $P_o$  = beginning year, and  $n$  = number of years between.

(1) The 2000 count for this locality is under review by the Count Question Resolution (CQR) program of the U.S. Census Bureau.

(2) The 2000 Census counts for Albemarle and Charlottesville were 79,236 and 45,049, respectively. However, it appears that several thousand students in UVA dormitories were miscoded from Albemarle into Charlottesville. The adjusted figures reflect local authorities' estimates of the corrected counts, and will be replaced with official count revisions when they are available.

(3) It appears that the 2000 Census count for Russell County includes a prison facility actually located in Wise County.

(4) The 2000 Census count for Hampton is questionable, currently showing a correctional institution population of 8,032 that cannot be identified.
